

BETTER BATHROOMS & KITCHENS

BRIGHT, BOLD AND BEAUTIFUL

A MEDITERRANEAN INFLUENCE

Stepping foot into their unique ensuite, this home's owners are transported to a bright Mediterranean villa. For this project, Better Bathrooms & Kitchens was presented the task of converting a study/sunroom off a bedroom into an ensuite, which would complement the home's distinct style.

The Mediterranean-influenced style of the home features bright, bold colours and dark rustic furnishings. The team at Better Bathrooms & Kitchens set out to create an ensuite that was in keeping with this style, careful not to create a space that would deter any future buyers.

With its scroll-like sill, designer Karen Agnew saw the room's window as its standout feature. To highlight this, she chose a unique tile inset to feature under the window, using colours within the tiles as basis for the room's bright colour palette.

Though a large space, avoiding detracting from the window and tile inset meant making careful decisions about the placement of bathware. The use of a frameless glass shower, featuring a Perrin and Rowe shower set, retains the room's sense of space and light. The vanity unit and custom mirror were chosen to complement the dark timber furnishings used throughout the home.

The lower half of the room's feature window was frosted to give privacy, while still allowing in lots of light. Better Bathrooms & Kitchens lifted the floor, which assisted in extending plumbing to a new area of the home, and also allowed for a flush shower entry. The neutral tiles used on the floor and wall were selected to complement, but not distract from the feature tiles.
